The Network for Public Health Law is a national initiative of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation with direction and technical assistance by the Public Health Law Center at William Mitchell College of Law.

This document was developed by Paul Heinmuller and Gabriel Scott, J.D. Candidates '13, under the supervision of Kathleen Hoke, J.D., Director, and Kerri McGowan Lowrey, J.D., M.P.H., Deputy Director, of the Public Health Law Network – Eastern Region at The University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law. Updates were performed by Emma Currin and Travis Chance, J.D. Candidates '14 in 2104 and by Jenna Snyder, J.D. Candidate '16. This compilation includes only codified state statutes and administrative regulations, and does not include other types of policy, such as departmental guidance documents, non-codified legislative actions, association bylaws, or opinions of attorneys general. This compilation also does not include pilot programs, laws establishing study groups, or laws that apply to less than the entire state.

¹ Renewal period for older drivers starting at age 60. This renewal period may be the same as for other drivers, or more frequent depending on the state. Numbers in parentheses represent the applicable ages if the law provides more than one renewal period for older drivers in the state. For example: 4 (65-74); 1 (75+) means that for drivers between 65 and 74, renewal is every 4 years, and for drivers 75 and older, renewal must occur every year.

² State laws that include provisions for vision testing of older drivers. The applicant must meet the standards set by the state's administrative agency.

³ State laws that include provisions for road testing of older drivers. The applicant must meet the standards set by the state's administrative agency.

⁴ Driver chooses renewal period.

⁵ Administrative agency has discretion to choose a period between 13 months and 2 years.
